

Solid Silver Wedding Gifts

It sounds well—there is nothing quite so sweet to the ears of a bride as sterling silver.

Apart from the quality—which is high here, and the chasteness of the patterns—which can be seen at a glance, it is important to know that the prices are not extravagant.

Our jewelry store is the best place in the county to get suggestions for wedding presents. We have made a study of this "gift question." It is our business to know what is suitable for various gift occasions.

Choose Your Gifts Here

Our stock is varied and so are the prices. Every taste and every pocket book is sure to be suited. We have many inexpensive but dainty little novelties here besides silverware which will make excellent gifts.

This is a jewelry store where you can get just what you are looking for at the price you want to pay.

Everything in our fine line of silverware, gems, jewelry, watches, etc., contains nothing but real, tangible values, coupled with up-to-date styles.

Drop in and let us assist you choosing your wedding gifts—let us prove to you that here is a jewelry store that is worthy of your trade.

North Platte Secures Another Convention.

North Platte, which is becoming known as one of the convention cities of the state, has secured the state convention of the B. P. O. Elks for 1914, thanks to the efforts of Messrs. McDonald, Evans and Langford who attended the state meeting at Omaha this week. While the number of delegates attending the Elks' conventions is not very large, they are always a bunch of good fellows who mix well, and when they are in town the fact is known without any special advertising.

The strength of the North Platte Elks, considering the sparsely settled territory assigned to their jurisdiction, together with their fine home, has made the lodge one of the best known in the west, and the delegates to the state convention readily consented to having the 1914 convention held in this city; they wanted to come here next year and mingle with the "live wires."

In addition to selecting North Platte for the next convention, the local lodge was further recognized by the election of Ray C. Langford as one of the state officers.

A Word to our Subscribers.

While it is not customary for The Tribune to refer to such matters, we make an exception in this instance to call the attention of subscribers to the fact that too many of them, and especially those residing in the city, are delinquent. All those in arrears will, during the next two weeks receive a statement of the amount due, and it is not unfair to demand that these amounts be promptly paid. If you do not deem The Tribune worth the price, the publisher will thank you if you will come in, pay the amount due and discontinue the paper; it is not the desire to send it to a single person who does not consider he gets full value for the investment. It is better to have 1,000 subscribers who are satisfied and pay promptly than a list of 2,000 and have half of them dissatisfied and slow pay.

The actual cost of producing The Tribune is considerably in excess of the subscription price, and this being true we can not afford to carry dead-heads. If you fail to respond within a reasonable time to the statement sent you, your name will be dropped from the list and the account placed in the hands of an agency for collection.

June Term Federal Court Adjourned.

The term of federal court to have been held in this city commencing the second Monday in June, will be adjourned until September 2nd. Judge W. H. Munger was compelled to take this action because of the heavy docket in the federal court in Omaha, which will prolong that term until the end of June.

The docket for the North Platte court is quite heavy, many cases having accumulated since the last term of court. The adjournment until September will, of course, increase the docket, and the fall term will prove the longest one yet held.

Bargain List.

Full two story frame dwelling, eight rooms, modern except heat, full lot and shade trees, nice lawn and out buildings, 600 E. 3rd St., block from new school house, three blocks from high school.

Conditions in Cheyenne County.

The Omaha Bee says: Special reports to the Burlington from Cheyenne county indicate that out there the agricultural boom is reaching the acute stage. The agent at Sidney reports that at this time sixty tractor engines are in operation in the county, hauling an equal number of eight-bottom plows, with each set turning over twenty-five acres of sod daily.

Since the first of April forty carloads of emigrant movables were received at Sidney and more than 100 new settlers have located in the vicinity of the town, most of them buying vacant land which they are now improving.

The Tribune man does not recall a season when more improvements were visible in North Platte than at present. More than a score of residences are in various stages of construction, on every street one sees houses being repaired or enlarged and there is a general forward movement in the building line in all parts of the city. Some times we feel that business in North Platte is not quite as brisk as it should be but this feeling is dissipated when we ride over the town and note the improvements; we then conclude that we have been complaining without cause.

The city school board and Supt. Tout met with the patrons of the Baker school in the school house of that district Wednesday afternoon and arrangements were made to build a windmill and fence on the grounds and irrigate the grounds for the elm trees recently planted there. The building will be repaired and eighth grade work will be taken in addition to the studies formerly pursued. The attendance at this school numbers about thirty.

Mrs. Frank Dickerson, of Hershey, who visited Mrs. F. Muchinski last week returned home.

Gilbert's Wit.

Brevity, says Rowland Grey in the Century, was the soul of Sir W. S. Gilbert's wit which sparkled in chance conversation to less than in the lines that he wrote for Sullivan's operas. Mr. Grey gives a few instances:

The terrible verdict as to a certain Hamlet whose impersonator unavailingly asked him to be candid is historical: "Funny, my dear fellow—funny without being vulgar." A remark about another conceited player was made to a very limited audience: "Poor —! He has all the faults of an actor without the excuse of being one." A word was enough. He described a sweet old lady, all sloping shoulders and honiton lace, as "belonging to the early keep-sake period." Another, who was being ridiculed for the hideous Middlesex accent, which converted bad weather into a "roll d'y," was gravely defended by him: "She is of ancient lineage, for it is evident she descended from the Twanglo-Saxons."

Didn't Fear For Mamma.

A Lakewood woman was recently reading to her little boy the story of a young lad whose father was taken ill and died, after which he set himself diligently to work to support himself and mother. When she had finished the story she said:

"Dear Billy, if your papa were to die would you work to support your dear mother?"

"Naw," said Billy unexpectedly.

"But why not?"

"Ain't we got a good house to live in?"

"Yes, dearie. But we can't eat the house, you know."

"Ain't there a lot of stuff in the pantry?"

"Yes, but that won't last forever."

"It'll last till you get another husband, won't it? You're a pretty good looker, ma."

Mamma gave up right there.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Let Her Go, Gallagher."

Judge Beaver of Morgan county, Ky., had a trotting mare of which he was very proud. The animal was always driven at the race meets by a man named Gallagher, who was at that time city marshal of Harrodsburg. On one occasion the judge entered his mare at a trotting meeting in Tipton county. Some sports there, knowing of the judge's pride in the animal, thought they would lower his colors for once, so they entered against her a noted fast trotter. At the end of the first half mile the two trotters passed under the wire neck and neck at a 2:40 pace, and the judge grew wildly excited. "Let her go, Gallagher! Let her go!" he shouted. And Gallagher, hearing, loosened the lines. The mare pluckily responded and finished more than a dozen lengths ahead, amid the wild cheering of the crowd.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Forgetful Disraeli's Luck.

Disraeli received one morning a letter from a Mrs. Wilyams, whom he did not know, in which she said that she had read his novels with much interest and would like to make his acquaintance. She also asked a question which rendered it necessary for him to answer the letter. Unfortunately the letter was left in his greatcoat pocket, and "Dizzy" did not wear the coat until several months after, when he happened to be in the south of England and in the very town in which Mrs. Wilyams lived. Coming across the letter in such circumstances, it occurred to him to call upon her, and Mrs. Wilyams was so flattered at, as she thought, his carrying the letter so long about him and then calling that she decided on leaving him her fortune.

Function of the Eyebrows.

The eyebrows protect the eye from external violence. The hairs, on account of their oblique direction, prevent the perspiration from flowing toward or irritating the surface of that organ; they direct it toward the temple and the root of the nose. The color and number of hairs of the eyebrow have an influence upon their use. They generally have some relation to the climate. The eyebrows protect the eye from excess of light, particularly when it comes from above. This effect is made more conspicuous by knitting of the brows.

A Will in Rime.

This will, although written in rime, was probated in County Dublin, Ireland:

All earthly goods I have in store
To my dear wife I leave for evermore.
I freely give; no limit do I fix.
This is my will, and she executrix.
THOMAS ANDREW ARMSTRONG.

The "earthly goods" amounted to $6,500 worth of property.

Capped.

Yankee, boasting of the great heat experienced in America—It's so hot it burns the wings off the flies! Pat—That's nothing to what it is in Ireland! We have to feed hens on ice cream to keep them from laying boiled eggs.—London Telegraph.

Inanimate Salesmen.

"Are those good graphophones?"
"The goods speak for themselves."
"That's so. Well, wind one up and let's see if it can effect a sale."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Quits Likely.

"What do you know of old dog Tray?"
"Judging by the name, he must have beat the deuce."—New York Press.

Coercion.

"How old are you, Ethel?"
"I'm five, an' mamma says if I'm good an' eats lots o' oatmeal I'll be six next birthday."—Life.
